PLAIN TRUTHS

The blood is the foundation of life, it circulates through every part of the body, and unless it is pure and rich, good health is impossible. If disease has entered the system the only sure and quick way to drive it out is to purify and enrich the blood.

These simple facts are well known, and the highest medical authorities agree that nothing but iron will restore the blood to its natural condition; and also that all the iron preparations hitherto made blacken the teeth, cause headache, and are otherwise injurious. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS will thou oughly and quickly assimilate with the blood, purifying and strengthening it, and thus drive disease from any part of the system, and it will blacken the teeth, cause head ache or constipation, and is posi-

Gents:—Upon the recommendation of a friend I tried Bhowe's how BITTERS as a tonic and restorative for my daughter, who I was thoroughly convinced was wasting away with Consumption. Having lost three daughters by the terrible disease, under the care of eminent physicians, I was loth to believe that anything could arrest the progress of the disease, but, to my great surprise, before my daughter had taken one bottle of BROWN'S INON BITTERS, she began to mend and now is quite restored to former health. A fith daughter began to show signs of Consumption, and when the physician was consulted he quickly said "Tonics were required;" and when informed that the elder sister was taking BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, responded "that is a good tonic, take it."

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS effectually cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion and Weakness, and renders the greatest relief and benefit to persons suffering from such wasting diseases as Consumption, Kidney Complaints, etc.

PARKER'S

The King of Ireland. [From the Manchester Guardian.]

An illustrious personage, of whose existence, we are ashamed to say, we have only just become aware, has in the handsomest manner offered to relieve Mr. Gladstone of the Irish question. "The Macguilla Phadrick," in a letter to the Prime Minister, reveals himself as the "lineal descendant of Fitzpatrick, King of Ossory," and therefore de jure King of Ireland. He deigns the information that he was "crowned at the age of ten on the 21st of May, 1847, by his father, on the hallowed coronation stone of Kildare." He adds that he was there and then "hailed King of Ireland," though by whom he omits to state. There is no contemporary record, so far as we are aware, of the august ceremony with which he seeks to overpower Mr. Gladstone, and The Macguilla Phadrick's attention may be invited to an omission which, for the sake of historical fullness, ought to be supplied. Waiving the little point of form as to his father's title to place the crown on his youthful brow, Phadrick pere must, we presume, have made a solemn renunciation of his own claims to the regal dignity before proceeding to pass them on to his heir. But no act of abdication is mentioned. This, however, may be a matter of no practical importance. father may have since passed over to the majority, and in that case any informality of the kind suggested would of course in no way operate as a bar to the claim which the son now notifies to "the whole world at large.

The Macquilla informs Mr. Gladstone that he has "trusty agents located all over the thirty-two counties" of Ireland, and he intimates that he "feels it his duty to repair to Ireland at once to heal the wounds of her children, who are as sheep without a shep-herd." If we might presume to tender ad-vice to so exalted an individual, we should strongly recommend him not to incur the expense of a voyage from New York. On this side of the Atlantic he would find himself confronted by difficulties of a serious character. It is quite possible we think, that Mr. Gladstone may decline his magnanimous proposal; but even if he could be sure of finding a sympathizing friend in the Prime Minister there would be other obstacles to surmount. Ireland swarms with des cendendants of her "ancient Kings," and some of these gentlemen would certainly dispute The Macguilla Phadrick's title to assume the purple. Nor would his troubles end here. He would have to reckon also with O'Donovan Rossa and the patrons of the skirmishing fund. A monarchial system forms no part of the programme of these energetic politicians, and it is much to be feared that ever if the Macguilla succeeded in seating himself on the throne of "Fitzpatrick. King of Ossory," he might some day or other be made the subject of a painful experiment in dynamite practice. On the whole, The Macguilla Phadrick had better remain where he is, abhorrent as it may be to the feelings of the descendant of a hundred Kings to breathe, it may be, the atmosphere of a dry goods store or a Brooklyn groggery.

A Strange Story. "Assassination by silence" is the latest Gallicism. It was the verdict of medical men and of society in the case of a French woman recently deceased; and a coroner's jury would probably have rendered the same verdict if the care had not been kept ...om the coroner. Noble by birth she was, and very rich; but she was hopelessly plain, ugly of feature and hump-backed. Her husband a duke, married her for her money, and hated her for her ugline's. A fortnight after her wedding her martyrdom began, but not as other conjugal martyrdoms have done. The duke lavished attentions on her -in public he was affectionate-before the servants it was "darling" and "beloved," and "my little cat"-when any one was present; but in private changed, and only one old nurse was in the secret. He pretended to be jealous of her, and so played the Othello. He had the hinges of all the doors so carefully oiled that they could be opened without a creak, the domestics were trained to move about noiselessly, snares were set in the vast gardens of their hotel so that never the chirp of the sparrow was heard. The poor woman was forced to live in the midst of silence, and when they went together in society he scowled so fear-fully at every one who approached his wife to speak to her, that little by little people ceased to make the effort. And then after they had returned, and she had gone to bed, he would enter with list shoes on his feet, so as not to announce his coming, and would simulate a scene of jealousy; that is to say, he would pace up and down like one in a fury who is about to burst into reproaches; words of anger would seem on the point of issuing from his mouth; then he would stop by the bedside and raise his hand in threat, but he never struck, he never spoke, and, resuming his walk, would go through the same scene over and over again, until overcome by fatigue and horror, the duchess swooned. Every night for ten years his victim watched for menaces which he seemed about to proffer, but to which he never gave vent. The doctors were summoned at last, but the utmost they could say was that they were in the presence of some horrible mystery which could not be fathomed without killing the

Disease is an effect, not a cause. Its origin is within; its manifestations without. Hence, to cure the disease the cause must be removed, and in no other way can a cure ever be effected. WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE is established on just this principle. It realizes that of all diseases arise from deranged kidneys and liver, and it strikes at once at the root of the dif-ficulty. The elements of which it is composed act ficulty. The elements of which it is composed act directly upon these great organs, both as a food and restorer, and, by placing them in a healthy condition, drive disease and pain from the system. For the innumerable troubles caused by unhealty Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs; for the distressing Disorders of Women; for Malaria, and for physical derangements generally, this great remedy has no equal. Beware of imposters, imitations and concoctions said to be just as good. For Diabetes, ask for WARNER'S SAFE DIABETES CURE. For sale by all dealers.
